Our Year of Discovery

The year 1959-1960 was a year of discovery for the seniors of Armstrong High School. We discovered the joy of being seniors and of being looked up to by underclassmen. We discovered the responsibilities of being leaders. We discovered the rigors of debating in English 7 and of problem-solving in Trig. We discovered longer hours of study, harder work, but the satisfaction which comes when one realizes that a long-sought goal is in sight.

Leadership

Our greatest discovery, perhaps, in the area of scholarship was that "a little learning is a dangerous thing." Seniors elected to the National Honor Society included Maudetna Scales, Janie Jones, Marian Bey, Earnest Davis, Milton Grantham, Andrea Page, Iris Thomas, James Arrington, Malalia Stephens, Wesley Harris, and William Harris.

Scholarship

Competition

Seven senior girls vied for the title of "Miss Armstrong." They were Janie Jones, Marian Bey, Esther White, Goldie White, Andrew Page, Frances Snead, and Beverly Whitaker. Contestants were required to have a "B" average, good attendance record, and excellent citizenship traits.

Esther White won the coveted title of "Miss Armstrong," and the privilege of reigning over the Armstrong-Walker half-time activities.

Victory

The Big Game

Armstrong — Walker Game

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE BIG DAY--Miss Armstrong and her attendants leave the field after the Crowning. Members of the Cadet Corps serve as honor guard.

In an exciting moment, Stanley Brown (No. 26) carries the ball for Armstrong while George Davis (No. 51) comes to aid him.

Perfect Attendance

Faculty

The Principal

Seniors!

Make the most of this year with its exciting challenges, dramatic choices, ardent idealism and fervent friendships. Your present reactions to the world about you are striking and wonderful indications of your approaching maturity.

Whether you go on to honorable and creative adulthood depends on you. Make no mistake, this is your year of discovery; there will never be another year quite like it.

While parents and teachers are still with you and sympathetic guidance is available, make your greatest discovery--find out who you really are. Find out what you honestly want from life. Explore your possibilities, sincerely face your strengths and weaknesses; then, on the basis of your discoveries, plan your future.

This is your year of discovery and it can be your year of decision. It can be the year that started you on the pathway to self-realization, adult responsibility, and worthy citizenship.

God grant that you discover soon your true and highest self. God grant that you use your gifts for His glory, your own development, and service to mankind.

Boys' and Girls' Athletics Associations

Members of the Girls' Athletic Association were photographed in their "uniform"--white sweaters and blue skirts. Membership is open to all girls in the school.

(1) William Dunston and LaCountess Walley in chemistry class. (2) Marian Bey, co-captain of the Cheering Squad. (3) Alphonso Green receives prize from Kenneth Lord, president of the Retail Merchants Association, for best essay on retailing. (4) Participants on the "Courtesy Around the World" program were Yvonne Lomax, Alease Sully, James Wilson, Myra Brown, and Marian Bey. (5) Milton McCray in action. (6) Soloists in the Christmas Concert were Beverly Whitaker, Charles Hunter, and Barbara Williams. (7) Janet Jones, a D.E. student, demonstrates her selling technique to Roy West, instructor. (8) Helen Neal and LaVerne Jenkins enjoy a bulletin board showing Cuban and Puerto Rican souvenirs.
